Driving Home Naked

UPDATES

Celebrating the Launch

Hey gang! June was a super busy month preparing for the Driving Home Naked book launch in August. Thank you SO much for getting the word out about the book. Y'all spread things faster than a bull with an STD, and I love you for it. In this newsletter, I'll share a sampling of some of the great stuff going on. Let's keep generating hype through the month of July. Thanks!

Real Virginia: Episode #385

Dr. Melinda's Podcast Debut

I had the pleasure of joining my veterinary school classmate, Corinne, on her podcast The Cairn: Marking the Trail for Veterinarians.

To celebrate Dairy Month, I donated a signed Advanced Reader Copy of Driving Home Naked to the Orange County 4-H Dairy Club. The book, along with a gallon of milk and a cooler, was auctioned off for $4,250. These funds will help club members further their own education and promote the dairy industry, a cause that is near and dear to my heart.

We also kicked off our Church-2-Church 10-Gallon Milk Challenge, where the churches in our county donate thousands of gallons of milk to food pantries to support children during the summer. You'll get to read about it in the book.

I taste-tested the delicious cocktail that was hand-crafted for my book by Laurie, my friend, client, and mixologist. Luckily for me, eating the spiked peach this time was a much more pleasurable experience than the one you'll read about in the book. I've named the cocktail "Miss Myrtle's Magic Medicine" in honor of that wild story.
